Visit to Aldenham Park

Aldenham Park is a Grade II* Palladian house with strong links to Charles I who took refuge from Oliver Cromwell in a priest hole there. Later, Charles II presented the Acton family with a fine portrait of Charles I, which still hangs in the Saloon to this day. The Acton family sold the property to the present owners in 1959 and it is now a private family home.

Visit to Pitchford Hall

We are repeating our popular visit to Pitchford Hall to give those of you who missed it another opportunity. The tour involves considerable walking and stairs.
